Membership to the Association of First Aiders – www. AoFA.org

Membership is wide and available to all people and companies interested in first aid. We take the view that an Association must have input from a wide an audience as possible. The first aider for example is at the 'sharp' end. Their requirements must be feedback to governing bodies, i.e. HSE and to training providers to ensure that first aid provision fits their needs.

Similarly, to ensure quality and effectiveness of training and provision, the first aid industry must be represented through a collective voice to government and to be kept informed of potential threats and opportunities that may arise.

“We have entered a period of change in first aid and first aid training”
– keep informed with the AoFA
